

Introduction to Cross Wrap Designs

Cross Wrap 25

Here is a diamond pattern, which shows the use of the chevron in building this design. To begin the design the same dark color was used all four ways to make the solid diamond center. The next ring was made by using yellow and orange at the same time to create the chevron look. Then simple diamond borders with yellow and dark green were used to frame the design. The outer orange and yellow chevrons were made just opposite of the first combination. Then dark green was used to finish the design.

This is another example showing the use of a two color split center diamond plus two shades of green chevrons framing them. A simple single pattern left open for the rod blank to show.

Once you have become used to the principles of using the chevrons and diamonds, let your imagination take over and apply the many possibilities and combinations to your patterns.
